Dedication

In recognition of

The consistency of your devotion to the purpose of Eastern Nazarene College through twenty-two years of distinguished service as Professor of Religion, Head of the Department of Religion, Chairman of the Graduate Division of Theological Studies, and as Interim Dean of the College;

The constancy of your sincere concern for the total development of your many students;

The coherence of your exemplary Christian life, evident both in and out of the classroom, and the unity which it has brought to the diversifications of your capabilities;

We, the staff, do dedicate the NAUTILUS 1967 to

Foreword

The staff has chosen as the theme of the 1967 NAUTILUS the words UNITY IN DIVERSITY. They were impressed with the unity which can be formed from a multiplicity of components. Each of us as students represents the union of a vast number of parts. Likewise, the college is an integration of its various aspects.

The many parts of the student or the various aspects of the college do not just come together as a unit; there must be some unifying force which by virtue of its own power incorporates the diversity of the constituents into an effective whole. We recognize this unifying force to be the love of God.

We as individuals can only attain an effective unity in our lives as we purpose to consistently live our lives in accordance with the principles of Christian love. Similarly, the college can only become an effective whole as it encourages the search for truth, not only in academic areas, but also in the areas of human relationships and knowledge of God.

UNITY in DIVERSITY

in Student Life

The student's life is filled with a wide array of activities and interests. His academic interests demand involvement in the classroom and in the library. His social life includes a large variety of planned and casual activities. Individual meditation and group participation are important parts of his religious life. And he must exercise and maintain his physical body. All these and many other areas compound the diversity of a student's life.

Unity is found in this diversification of activities in the student's search for knowledge and truth, and in the living of his life in complete accordance with the knowledge and truth that he has found.

The academic area of a student's life was characterized ideally by his search for knowledge. This search involved activity in the classroom and in the library.

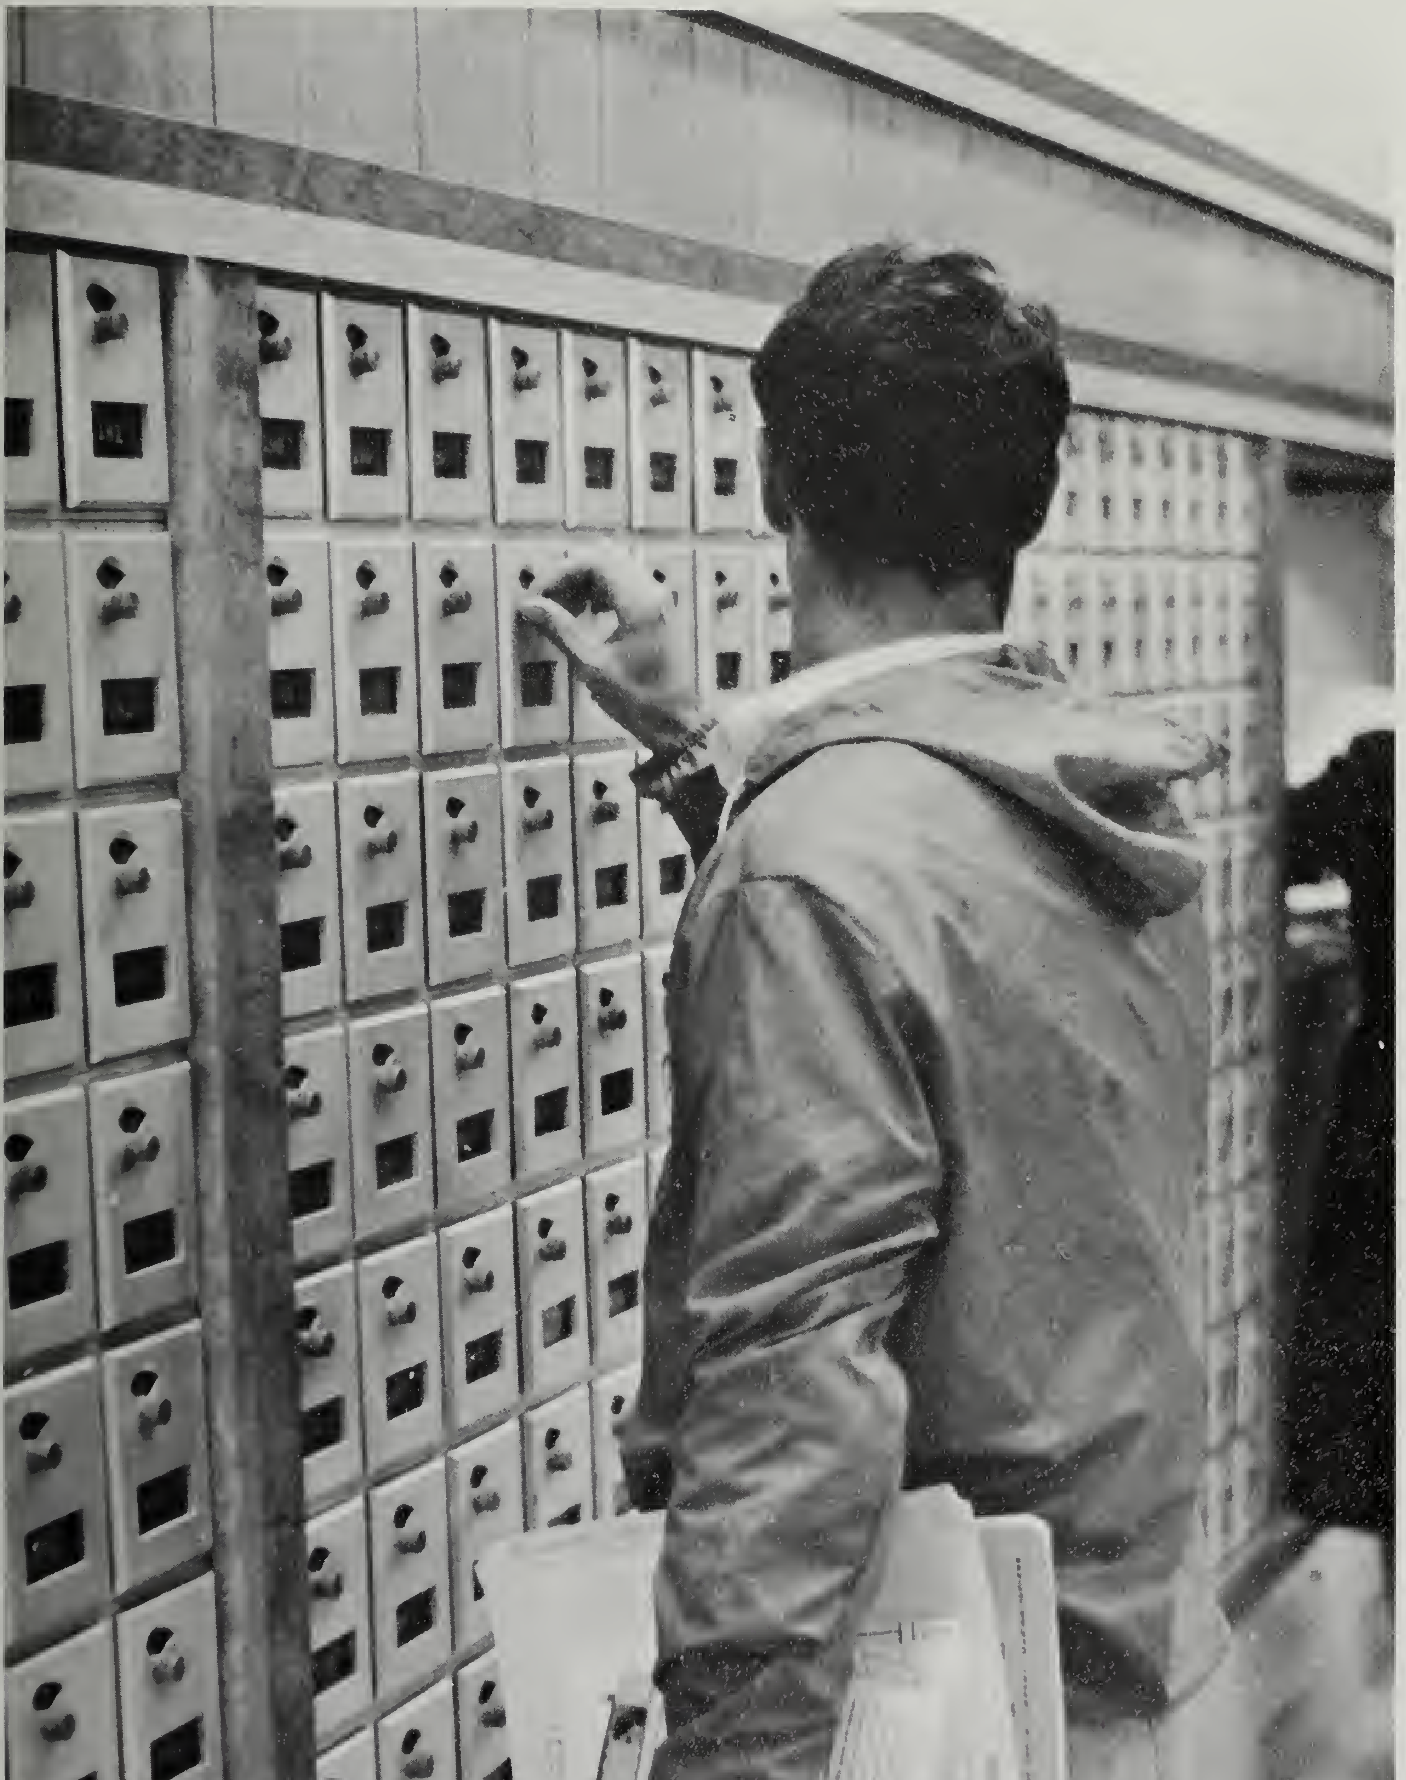
The library provided for limited social interchange as well as a place for studying.

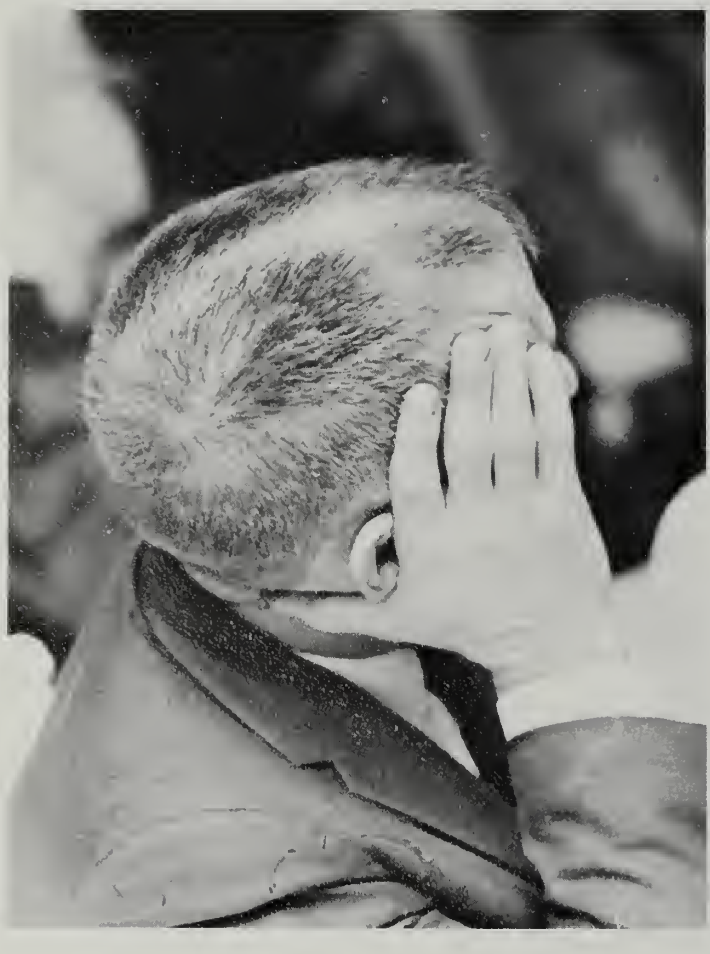
EXIT

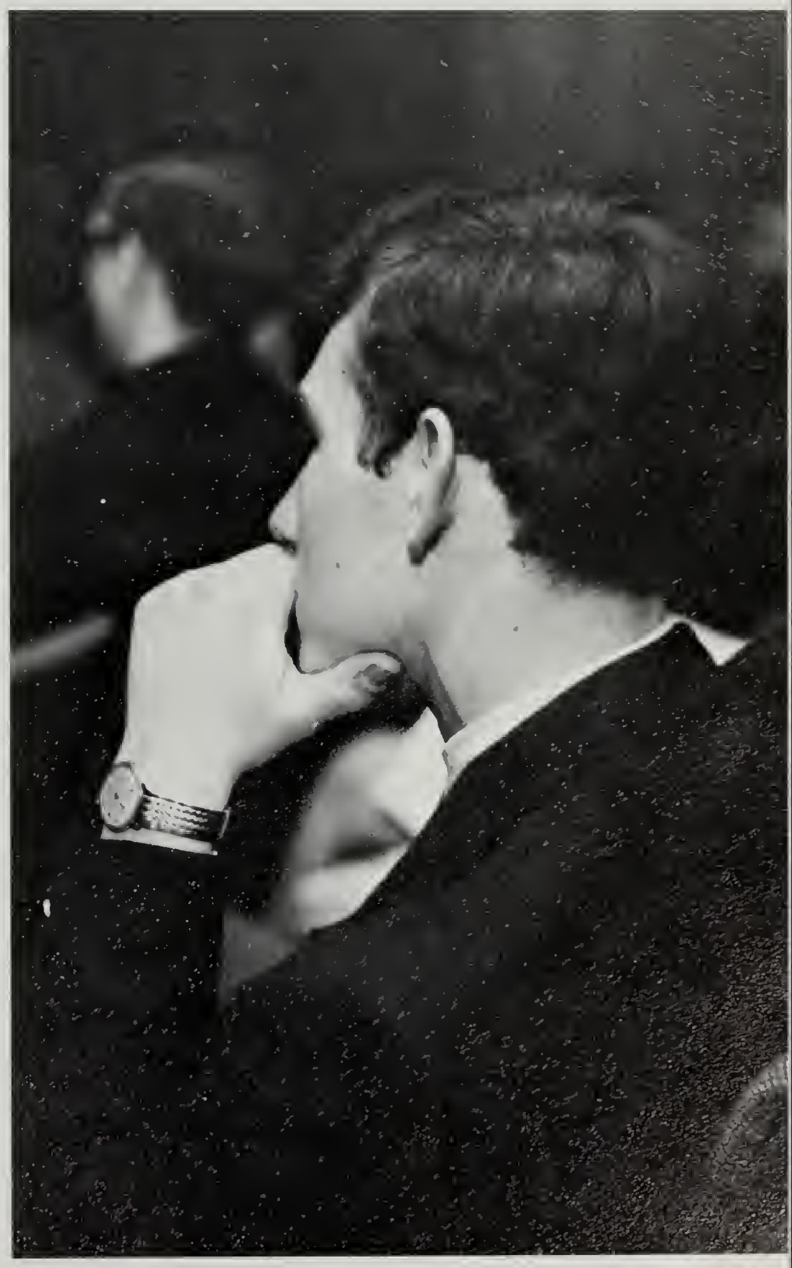
Everyday student life held many opportunities for casual confrontation.

Regardless of the time of year, campus sidewalks were always busy with students coming and going, all toward their separate destinations.

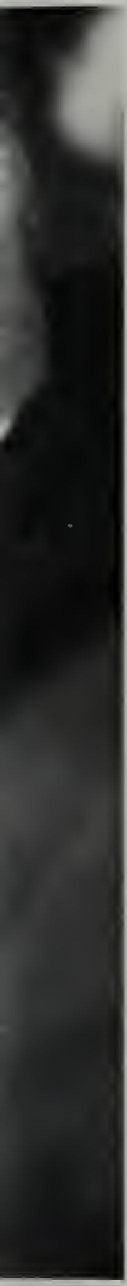
An interesting array of activities is revealed by pictures taken from behind.







Facial expressions reflect a number of interests.



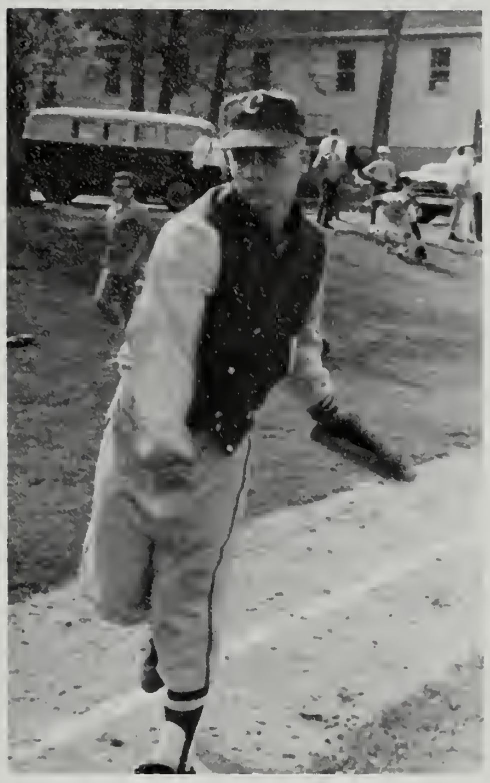
Several appealing studies involve only two persons in each picture. The object of particular attraction is the unity of interest which brings the two individuals together in each study.

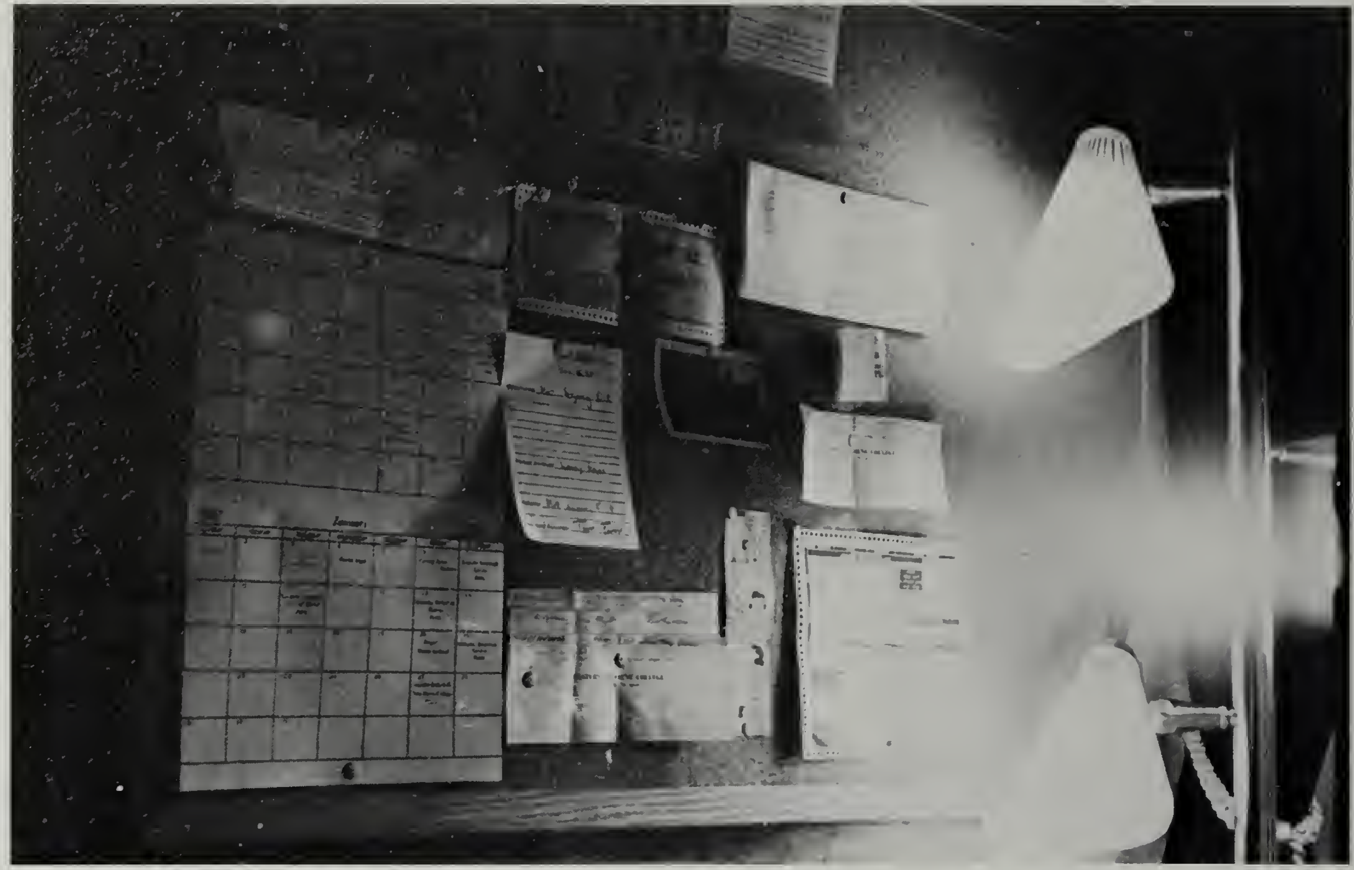
Various degrees of involvement are evident in these group studies indicating the intensity of the unity in diversity.

Chapel provided religious enrichment through group participation and encouraged spiritual examination on the individual level.

Prof. Babcock and crew worked long hours to beautify the campus before Commencement.

Physical exercise was acquired during gym classes, organized sports, and unstructured recreation room activities.





Maintenance of physical bodies as well as mental facilities took place in surroundings such as these.

Patterns and designs around campus demonstrate in their own way a certain unity in diversity.

UNITY in DIVERSITY

in the College

As the student's life represents the unity of a great number of separate parts, so the college is the union of its various aspects. Emphasis is placed not only on the academic, but also on the social, spiritual, and physical areas of college life. There is wide variation between the interests and capabilities of the administion, faculty, and students. The school calendar represents a large variety of events and activities.

Unity is found in this diversification of interests and events and emphases when the college encourages the search for truth, not only in areas of academic accent, but also in areas of human relationships and knowledge of God.

Student-Faculty Retreat

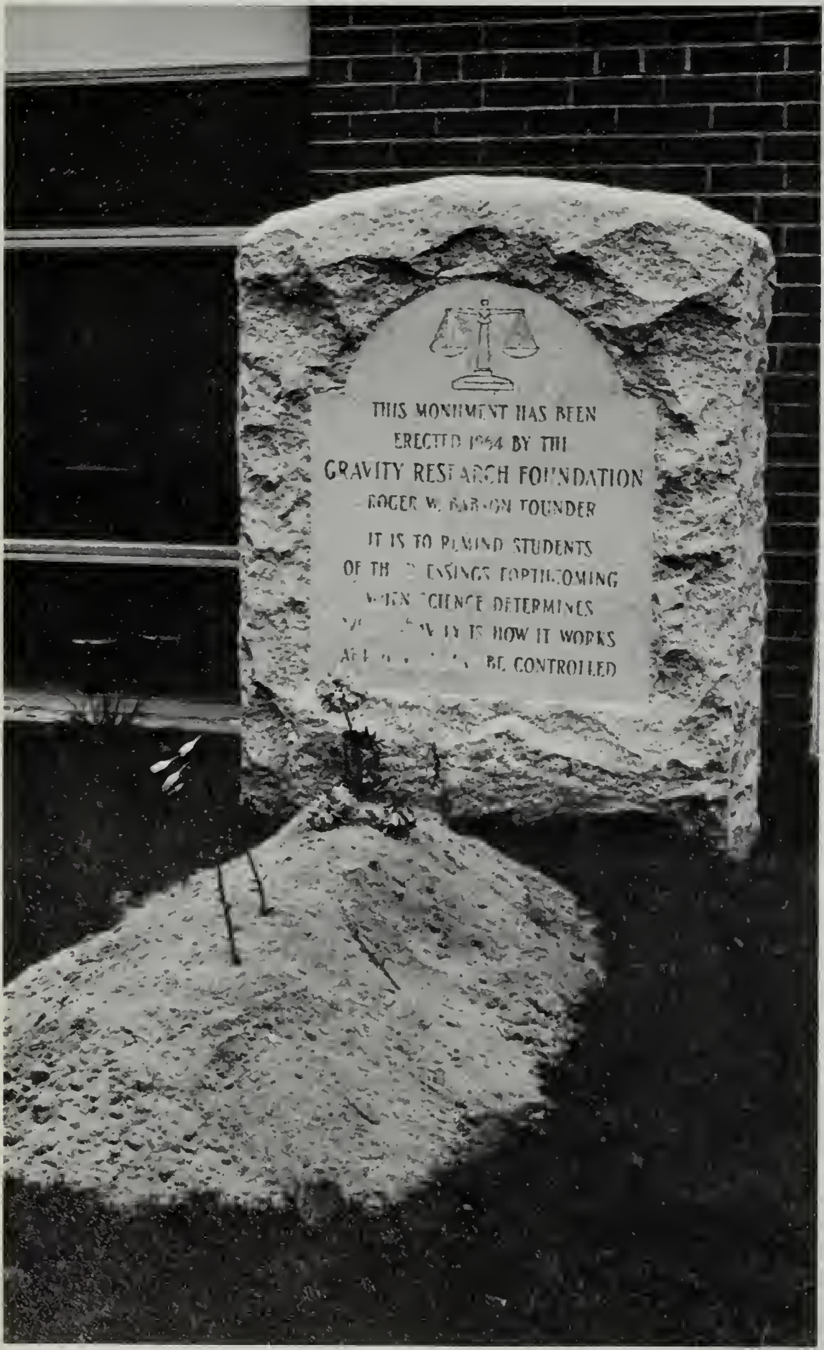
Members of the Student Council and selected members of the faculty and administration retreated to Camp Burgess to relax and to discuss student and faculty problems. The general theme of the Retreat was "The Christian Scholar in Search, in Study, and in Society."

1966 NAUTILUS Comes

After a long wait, students sat down to examine for the first time the 1966 NAUTILUS.

Roger W. Babson Day

The third annual Roger W. Babson Day was held in early October to commemorate gravity. (Below) The celebrated monument was traditionally decorated. (Right) Placards around campus displayed appropriate slogans.

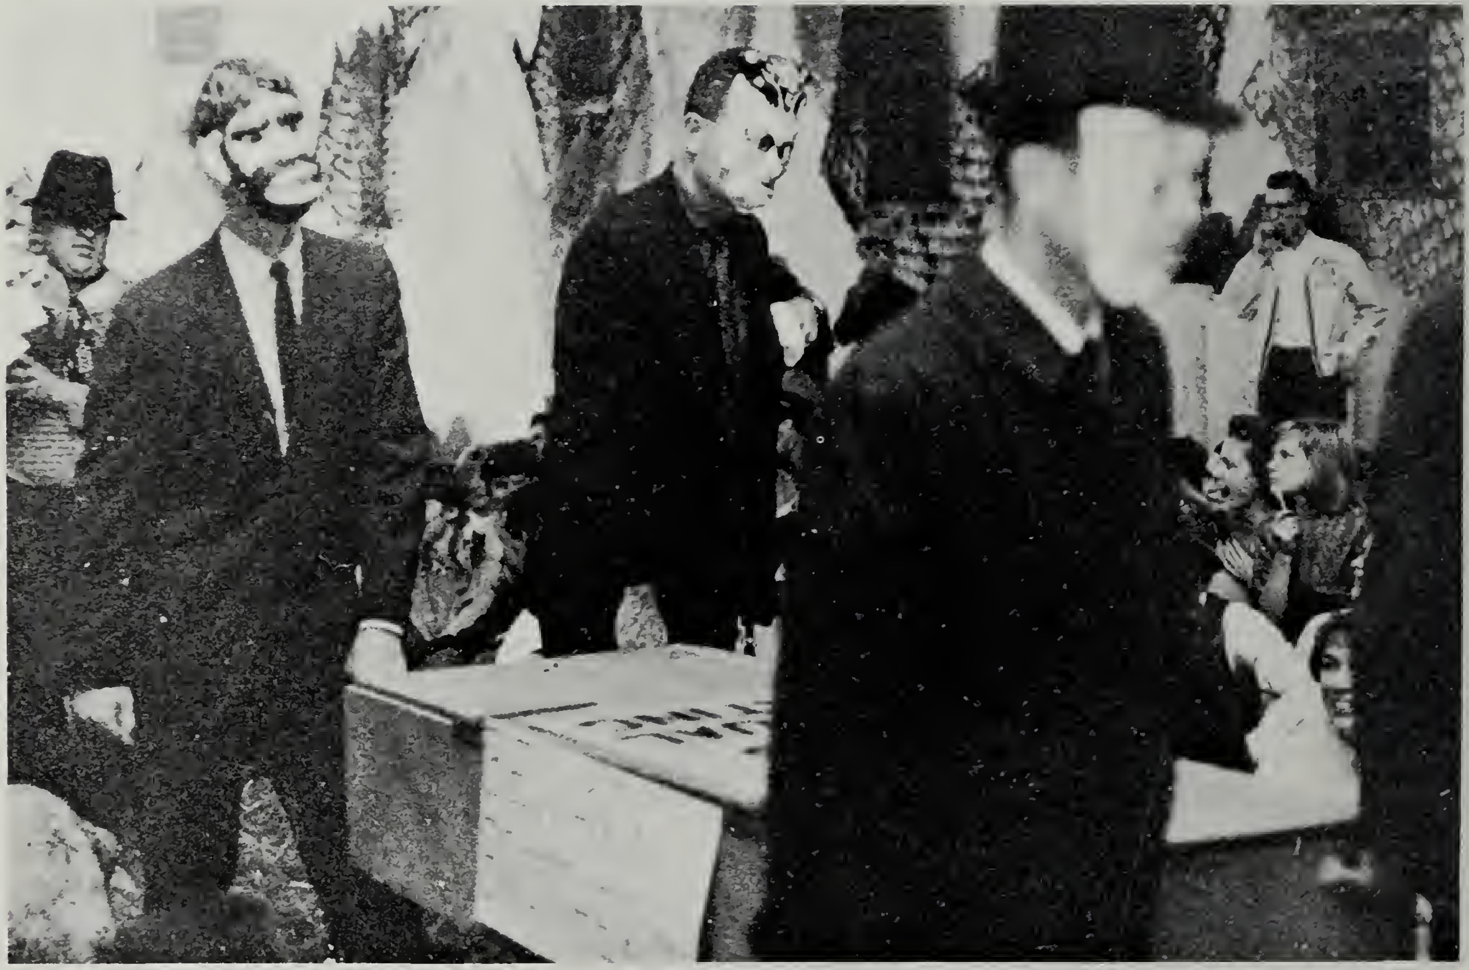


Founders' Day

Dr. Hugh C. Benner delivered the Founders' Day Address entitled "Floyd William Nease—Man of God." After the address President Mann conferred upon Stephen Nease, alumnus and former Director of Development at ENC, the degree of Doctor of Divinity, Honoris Causa.

Fall Party

The Fall Party took the form of a Halloween masquerade in the College gym. Fellows with their TWIRP dates, dressed so as not to be recognized, carved pumpkins in competition. Following pages: Entertainment was provided by a girls trio and a faculty skit. Afterwards, costumed couples ate and talked in the eerie atmosphere.



Crusader Soccer

The Crusader Soccer team completed its third season with a 3-7 record. The team was plagued with injuries from the beginning of the season but showed definite improvement over the previous two years. The list of the Crusaders' 1966 opponents is as follows:

- Farmington State
- Curry
- Gordon
- Barrington
- Mass. Maritime
- New Hampshire College
- Windham
- Southeastern Mass. Tech. Institute

Student Government

The Student Council holds one of its weekly meetings to discuss student affairs.

The Student Council enjoyed a very successful year under the leadership of President Jim Cubie. The Council implemented the organization of the Associated Women Students, the Associated Men Students, and the Circle K Club. It initiated such progressive programs as weekly Response discussions, and Town Meetings. It attempted to increase communication and understanding between the student body and the administration. The Council also played an effective part in easing several student problems.

Members of the Student Council were as follows:

Jim Cubie	Student Body President
Merritt Nielson	Vice President
Ethel Mae Haslett	Secretary
Janice Williams	Social Chairman
Dave Bowen	CAMPUS CAMERA Editor
Doug Dickson	NAUTILUS Editor

It's finally finished!

After nearly two months of concentrated work the final draft of th Nautlius 1967 is completed. Already I see it as a most profitable e perience. I chose to do the major portion of the work on the Nautil 1967 myself since I felt that this would provide a consistency in them and layout that otherwise would not have been possible. However, recognize that if it were not for the help of several persons the produ tion of the Nautilus 1967 would not have been conceivable.

Rick Ward, my business manager, has been most helpful in handlin all financial aspects of the yearbook. He has raised a record amou of money in the advertising, his written thousands of letters to trad tional yearbook supporters, and has been responsible for the $16,00 that is necessary for the publication of the Nautilus each year. Pa Winemiller, my associate editor, was very helpful in evaluation an establishment of new ideas. Wayne Griffin, as my assistant edito relieved me of such jobs as office management, processing questio naires, and handling picture assignments. Shirley Davis did much of th typing of final copy for the Directories and the Senior section. Othe members of the staff were most helpful and it was encouraging t know that if I had chosen to use them more than I did that they woul have been willing.

Of particular help this year has been Mr. Al Weiner of the Alfre Brown Studio, or "Joe Beard" as many students have preferred to ca him. His experience in candid yearbook photography has enabled hi to give very helpful advice and to supply us with the sort of photograph which has made this yearbook possible. Also of great help has bee Mr. Don Doyle, representative of Foote & Davies. He has been c much technical assistance in the preparation of the final draft of th yearbook.

Finally, I would like to thank my advisor, Dr. Alvin Kauffman f his invaluable aid throughout the year. He was a source of encourag ment in his support of new ideas; he drew the final art work for th division pages; and he showed much interest in the general progress c the book over the course of the year.

The Nautilus 1967 has 304 pages; the paper stock is 80# Lynnfiel Embossed; the type is Times Roman throughout. The book was printe by Foote & Davies. Covers were supplied by the S. K. Smith Co.
